

LET'S GO BACK
..WAY BACK

LET'S GO BACK..

“Lets Go Back.. Way Back” is a celebration of the acid house era, established in the year 2000 to bring the sounds and vibe of the late 1980s to a new generation of clubbers.

Between them, resident DJs Bosco and Rob Mason have a long history of playing at acid house parties and events across the country.

BOSCO

Bosco started his DJ career in 1989, playing at numerous local parties and raves that kept him busy well into the '90s. In 1999 he took the plunge and launched his “Shake the Disease” nights in Glasgow’s Soundhaus, with the intent of capturing the spirit of '89, which paved the way for “Lets Go Back.. Way Back” a year later. In the summer of 2002 he ran the infamous weekly illegal warehouse parties in Glasgow’s West End, attracting up to 1,000 after hours clubbers.

ROB MASON

Rob Mason cut his teeth in Ayr’s Toledo Junction, later to become infamous as the Kitsch. From 1987 - 1990 he played at various bars and clubs in Ayrshire. In 1989 he was recruited to play at the now legendary Stretrave parties in Ayr Pavilion, Prestwick airport and back in the Kitsch club. Since then he’s played the Citrus in Edinburgh, the Pleasuredome in Irvine, Hippodrome in Manchester as well as countless clubs around Scotland, before joining Let's Go back as a resident in 2010.

..WAY BACK!

LET'S GO BACK..

The club has resided in several Glasgow venues including The Arches, Soundhaus and most recently La Cheeta. Let's go back have promoted large-scale gigs by the likes of 808 State at 02 Academy, Phuture and Hardfloor at SWG3 and Altern 8 in The Arches. The brand has recently branched out, launching the sidelines "Let's Go Back to the '80s" where they focus on the pre acid house club sounds, and "Let's Go Back to Disco", a celebration of the original underground club scene. They've curated rooms at the Scottish Soulful Weekender as well as running their own weekender event in Ayr.

The duo have played with a who's who of DJs over the years. Andrew Weatherall, Sasha, Carl Cox, The Martinez Brothers, Graeme Park, Moby, John Kelly, Kid Batchelor, Yogi Haughton, Nightmares on Wax, Mike Pickering, Fabio & Grooverider, Easy Groove, Frankie Bones, Slam, Harri, 808 State, Marshall Jefferson, Justin Robertson, DJ Pierre, The Orb, Richard Fearless, Slipmatt, Micky Finn, Altern 8 and Farley 'Jackmaster' Funk.

With a collective 50 years of experience behind the decks, and specialising in Acid House, Rave, Chicago House, Garage, Hip Hop, Disco & 80's dancefloor classics, these two are guaranteed to rock any party.. they've been there, done it and bought the acid house t-shirt!
